Senior/Aquatics Technical Advisor (indeterminate)
Yellowknife, Northwest Territories

The Tłı̨chǫ People have strong, traditional ties to the land, water, and wildlife, so ensuring responsible use of land and water for the benefit of Tłı̨chǫ People is of paramount importance. The Wek'èezhìi Land and Water Board is an affirmative action employer. Land claim beneficiaries are strongly encouraged to apply.

The Aquatics Technical Advisor is responsible for reviewing technical submissions related to the aquatic environment that are made to the Board, managing public reviews, conducting environmental impact assessments, liaising with government, industry, First Nations, and other stakeholders, managing various projects, and preparing and presenting recommendations to the Board. A senior candidate is ideal, however less experienced applicants will be considered.

If you have communication and environmental and/or technical experience and are interested in joining a high-performing team in a fast-paced, progressive, and dynamic environment, we encourage you to apply.

The successful applicant will have relevant education and demonstrate the following competencies in their cover letter and resume:

- proficiency with monitoring and evaluating changes in aquatic environments;
- strong critical thinking, organized reasoning, and technical writing ability;
- be team oriented and have effective oral communication skills;
- strong project- and time-management skills; and
- a high level of cultural and self awareness.

The starting salary for this position ranges from $106,946 to $133,488 per year plus a comprehensive benefits package that includes over $20,000 per year in allowances. Interested candidates should submit their cover letter and resume by Sunday, December 10, 2023 to:
